 - 공통 Scope: Biomedical / Life sciences 분야 (의학, 보건의료, 축산, 생물학, 심리학)

❖ MEDLINE, PubMed, PMC 차이?

The National Library of Medicine[®] (NLM[®]) journal citation database. Started in the 1960s, it now provides more than 29 million references to biomedical and life sciences journal articles dating back to 1946. MEDLINE includes citations from more than 5,200 scholarly journals published around the world.

Available since 1996. Its more than 34 million references include the MEDLINE database plus extra (e.g. in-process citations, ahead of print, etc.).

PubMed citations come from 1) MEDLINE indexed journals, 2) journals/manuscripts deposited in PMC, and 3) NCBI Bookshelf.

Launched in 2000 as a free archive for full-text biomedical and life sciences journal articles. PMC serves as a digital counterpart to the NLM extensive print journal collection; it is a repository for journal literature deposited by participating publishers, as well as for author manuscripts that have been submitted in compliance with the NIH Public Access Policy and similar policies of other research funding agencies.

MEDLINE is the main part of PubMed, an online, searchable, database of research literature in the biomedical and life sciences.

PubMed includes links to many full-text journal articles via PMC.

PMC & MEDLINE

- 유사점: Ethics policy, scientific quality, production quality 강조

PMC & MEDLINE

- MEDLINE: 좀더 독창성, 영향력 강조; 통과율 10% 수준 (영문논문, 게재율 <50% 여야 심사);
- PMC: 영문 25편만 종설/원저/case report 있으면 신청 가능
국영문지로 PMC 신청 조건: 호 당 50% 이상 영문논문

Language Guidelines

To support the MEDLINE Policy on Indexing Electronic Journals, PMC will accept applications from non-English MEDLINE journals.

For non-MEDLINE journals, NLM requires the primary content to be largely in English before an application can be submitted, as NLM only has the resources to review English-language content for PMC at this time. The scientific and editorial quality of the English-language content will be assessed following PMC's standard selection process. Multilingual journals that publish additional non-English content are encouraged to publish English-language abstracts and titles for these articles.

If a journal with non-English content is accepted for archiving, the complete contents of each volume/issue, regardless of language or MEDLINE status, should be deposited in PMC to ensure full coverage in the archive.

편집인의 투고 논문 처리 정책

A 학술지 (국영문) – 2022 PMC 등재

Editors who make final decisions about manuscripts should recuse themselves from editorial decisions if they have relationships or activities that pose potential conflicts related to articles under consideration. Other editorial staff members who participate in editorial decisions must provide editors with a current description of their relationships and activities (as they might relate to editorial judgments) and recuse themselves from any decisions in which an interest that poses a potential conflict exists. Editorial staff must not use information gained through working with manuscripts for private gain. Editors should regularly publish their own disclosure statements and those of their journal staff. Guest editors should follow these same procedures.

B 학술지 (국영문) – 2022 PMC 등재

Final revised manuscript: A final version of the accepted manuscript should be submitted on the web. If aspects of the research are reported elsewhere, include a copy of the publication(s). Include all main manuscript material in one file (with exception of title page). Save your file as MS Word. Failure to resubmit the revised manuscript within two weeks of the editorial decision is regarded as a withdrawal and will be treated as a new submission if submitted again later. All manuscripts from editors, employees, or members of the editorial board are processed same to other unsolicited manuscripts. During the review process, submitters will not engage in the selection of reviewers and decision process.

Instruction to Authors 중

Describe the study design, setting and samples, and measurements, procedure, analysis used. Authors are encouraged to describe the study according to the reporting guidelines relevant to their specific research design, such as those outlined by the EQUATOR Network (<http://www.equator-network.org/home/>) and the United States National Institutes of Health/ National Library of Medicine (http://www.nlm.nih.gov/services/research_report_guide.html).

Ensure correct use of the terms sex (when reporting biological factors) and gender (identity, psychosocial or cultural factors), and, unless inappropriate, report the sex or gender of study participants, the sex of animals or cells, and describe the methods used to determine sex or gender. If the study was done involving an exclusive population, for example in only one sex, authors should justify why, except in obvious cases (e.g., ovarian cancer). Authors should define how they determined race or ethnicity and justify their relevance.

2) Data sharing statement

The JKSR accepts the ICMJE Recommendations for data sharing statement policy (<http://www.icmje.org/recommendations/>). All manuscripts reporting clinical trial results should submit a data sharing statement following the ICMJE guidelines from July 1, 2018.

Authors may refer to the editorial, “Data Sharing Statements for Clinical Trials: A Requirement of the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors,” in JKMS vol. 32, no. 7:1051-1053 (<https://jkms.org/DOIx.php?id=10.3346/jkms.2017.32.7.1051>).

1-3. DATA SHARING

This journal follows the data sharing policy described in “Data Sharing Statements for Clinical Trials: A Requirement of the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE)” (<https://doi.org/10.3346/jkms.2017.32.7.1051>). As of July 1, 2018 manuscripts submitted to ICMJE journals that report the results of interventional clinical trials must contain a data sharing statement as described below. Clinical trials that begin enrolling participants on or after January 1, 2019 must include a data sharing plan in the trial’s registration. The ICMJE’s policy regarding trial registration is explained at <http://www.icmje.org/about-icmje/faqs/clinical-trials-registration/>. If the data sharing plan changes after registration this should be reflected in the statement submitted and published with the manuscript, and updated in the registry record. All of the authors of research articles that deal with interventional clinical trials must submit data sharing plan of example 1 to 4 in Table 1. Based on the degree of sharing plan, authors should deposit their data after de-identification and report the digital object identifier (DOI) of the data and the registered site.

3.1. Manuscript Types

- 1) Original article: It presents results and provides new information from clinical or experimental studies. Appropriate statistics is necessary.
- 2) Review article: It is a narrative and comprehensive scholarly review on a specific topic. It is published as a commissioned paper at the request of the editor(s). Unsolicited submissions may be considered by the editors.
- 3) Guideline: It is an instruction for radiology practice from authoritative, recognized medical groups or societies. It must be supported by published scientific studies or acknowledged expert panels and be approved by the medical groups or societies before submission.
- 4) Pictorial essay: It is a unique type of educational review. It provides information through figures and explanations as visual educational material. The amount of text is smaller than that of a typical narrative review article. Its messages are mainly delivered by figures and figure legends.
- 5) Case report: It describes novel and educational findings with relevant clinical impact on radiology. Clinical findings should be strictly limited to findings that are directly relevant to radiological diagnosis.
- 6) Special report: It is a report of authors' viewpoint on a specific subject of interest to the Journal's readers. It provides information about important new developments in scientific regulations, policies, and guidelines.
- 7) Letter to the editor: It includes constructive criticism of a specific thesis published in the JKSR.

Role of Editors and Editorial Board members

Role of editor-in-chief

The editor-in-chief (EIC) has a final responsibility to publish manuscripts after review in the journal independently although she hears opinions of reviewers and editors. The EIC is the final decision maker on publishing and editorial policies and presides the editorial board meeting. When any issue on the publication ethics occurs, the EIC presides the ad hoc meeting for resolution of each issue and finally decides on the journal's statement.

She recommends editorial board members to the President of the Korean Society of Women Health Nursing. She attends the executive board meeting of the Society to explain the journal's status and budget. Externally, the EIC attends meetings of editors' associations as a delegate of the society, including the Korean Council of Science Editors and the Korean Association of Medical Journal Editors.

Role of associate editor:

Two Associate editors help the EIC by screening the submitted manuscript for compatibility with the journals' aims and scope, whether it is described according to the journal's style and format, and check for plagiarism using Copy Killer and/or CrossCheck (iThenticate). The associate editors meet with the EIC regularly to discuss the review results and decide on acceptance of each manuscript. They invite authors for review articles.
